Jen - thanks. if you give Heather an update, i would mention that the language was in the correct location on the label you reviewed/stamped. and remind them that we don't review final prints.

Hi Meredith and John,

Heather Bjornson, the consultant for Reckitt, sent me a copy of the label for this bait station pointing out that the tamper resistant statement is not in the correct location. I'm attaching a copy of the label she sent me, as well as a copy of the stamped label that we approved and my response to Tom and Rachel at Liphatech.

Thanks,
Jen

Good morning Rachel and Tom,

Since I'm not sure if you are back from vacation Rachel, I'm including both of you in the e-mail. A copy of the above label was brought to my attention regarding the placement of the tamper resistance statement. As a risk mitigation compliant product, the location of this statement must be in a specific location. Page 37 of the RMD states it must be placed "...immediately under product name." The current label has this statement in a different location, thus making it not compliant with the risk mitigation. Please place this statement in the correct location which would be under the product name. Thanks alot for your help with this.

Sincerely,
Jennifer
